ITALIAN VESSEL TORPEDO VICTIM

Austrian Submarine Sinks Passenger Ship.

LOSS OF LIFE MAY BE HEAVY

Of 582 Passengers and Crew Only 270 Survivors Have Been Accounted For, Some of Whom Are Wounded—Vessel Sailed From New York Oct. 17.

*****
Rome, Nov. 10.—The Italian liner Ancona has been sunk by a large submarine flying the Austrian colors. It carried 422 passengers and 160 in the crew. Two hundred and seventy survivors, some of them wounded, have been landed at Bizerta. *****

New York, Nov. 10.—The Ancona sailed from New York for Naples Oct. 17. It had on board 1,245 Italian reservists and a general cargo. It arrived at Naples Oct. 29.

The Ancona was built at Belfast in 1908. It had a gross tonnage of 8,210, was 483 feet in length and 58 feet beam.

For several months before Italy's entrance in the war the Ancona was engaged in carrying home Italian reservists from this country and supplies for the Italian government. On one of its trips from New York to Naples late in August last year the Ancona was stopped by the British at Gibraltar and twenty-four Germans and one Austrian were taken off the ship.

When the Ancona left New York on its voyage from here Oct. 17 it was in command of Captain Pietro Masardo.

All of its officers, engine room force and members of the crew were Italians who shipped from Italy.

William Hartfield, general manager of the Italian line, characterized the sinking of the Ancona as "an unnecessary crime" and "absolute murder." He immediately cabled the Naples office of his firm for all information regarding the disaster.

Although the had no list of its passengers Mr. Hartfield said the Ancona on its last few voyages to this country had carried 300 or 400 passengers, among them a number of American citizens, in the first cabin and in the steerage.

Most of its passenger list, Mr. Hartfield said, had been made up of women and children. He believed it carried a larger number of women and children on its present voyage.

The Ancona, he added, carried a crew of 160 men.

At no time, said Mr. Hartfield, did the Ancona carry guns or munitions of war, because it was against the rules of the company to carry war munitions on the same vessels with passengers.

The Ancona has been in the Italian line service for six years and without its cargo was valued at more than $1,000,000.

The Ancona played a prominent part in the rescue of passengers from the burning Fabre liner Sant Anna in mid-Atlantic last September 12. It came to the Sant Anna's aid and took off more than 600 passengers.

APPROVES NOTE TO LONDON

German Paper Says American Stand Is Unimpeachable.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Commenting on the American note to Great Britain concerning interference with American commerce the Frankfurter Zeitung says:

"The American stand, from the legal standpoint, is unimpeachable. America's trade has been most severely damaged by the arbitrary rule of the British navy. This rule is despotic and inefficient, since the Baltic is unattainable for the British."

"The report is irrelevant that some few British submarines have entered the Baltic and that this is sufficient proof of the establishment of British rule in this sea. This silly swindle was only disseminated in order to bluff the Americans and make them forget that when nations are at war a blockade must be exercised in a blockaded sea on the spot."

ORDERS MUNITIONS REPORT

Secretary McAdoo Calls on Plant Owners to Show Output.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Detailed reports on the operations and output of plants manufacturing munitions of war have been ordered by Secretary McAdoo from internal revenue collectors throughout the country. Treasury officials said the secretary thought this information should be available to his office and to congress.

BANISH SECRET CORONATION

Japanese Witness Emperor Accede to the Throne.

Kioto, Nov. 10.—For the first time in history the people of Japan and the representatives of the people of foreign lands were present at the coronation of a mikado, when Yoshihito, son of Mutsuhito, acceded to the throne of Nippon.

The story of this epochal event is the history of old Japan epitomized. The essence of the accession ceremony centered about the Kashikodo goro, or sacred mirror, which represents the spirit of the sun goddess Amaterasu.

The ceremony of the morning, a ritual service of ancestor worship, was held in a specially erected hall in the palace grounds known as the shunkoden hall, where was enshrined the sacred mirror brought from Tokio. In the olden days the people were not present. Vaguely they heard that the monarch had acceded to his throne, but they had no prerogative in the matter.

The United States was represented by Ambassador George W. Guthrie and Mrs. Guthrie.

ENGLAND UNMOVED BY WILSON'S NOTE

London, Nov. 10.—"Enlightened opinion here is not uneasy over President Wilson's note," says the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, who is in close touch with public men.

"The president's attitude," continues the correspondent, "is regarded as on the whole somewhat pedantic, but as not in intent or in any degree menacing."

"It is regretted that the president has not seen fit to accept the British suggestion in this country and if necessary carrying the appeal eventually to some sort of an international tribunal."

"The only danger that is foreseen here from the president's attitude is of a political kind. The presidential election in the United States is drawing near and in presidential campaigns everything is put into the melting pot. There are big vested interests in America, notably the Chicago meat packers, that are aggrieved by our practices, based upon the order in council of March last."

RUSHED TO THE NEAR EAST

German Submarines to Make War on Allies' Transports.

London, Nov. 10.—The hottest submarine campaign the war has seen is predicted by naval experts in the vicinity of Saloniki as soon as the German U-boat fleet, known to be on its way through the Mediterranean, can reach the Levant waters.

The undersea vessels' activities just inside the Strait of Gibraltar are taken to be merely incidents to the voyage.

The theory is that the fleet will not really get down to business until it is within striking distance of the transports landing the allied forces on the Aegean sea coast.

The territory in black on the map shows where the Austro-German forces have joined hands with the Bulgarians in northeastern Serbia. The rough mountainous country along the Danube is now cleared of Serbian defenders, and the invaders now have control of the Oriental railway as far south as Nish.

The Austro-German move south down the Morava valley makes slow progress. In the south the French and British have joined the Serbs defending the Nish-Salonika railway and have driven the Bulgarians who occupied Kupsill as far east as the outskirts of Nish.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN LOST

(By United Press)

London, Nov. 10.—About 300, mostly women and children, and possibly several Americans, perished when the Ancona was submarined.

Of the 582 passengers aboard only 270 are accounted for and many of these are wounded. It is believed the liner attempted to escape the submarine as the dispatches declare the submarine fired 100 shots at her. Among the Ancona's passengers were Price Cassano, the famous Italian painter. Dispatches indicate the loss of life was heaviest among the immigrants.

The United States was represented by Ambassador George W. Guthrie and Mrs. Guthrie.

IVERSON OPENS HIS RACE FOR GOVERNOR

St. Paul, Nov. 10.—Samuel G. Iverson, former state auditor, fired the opening gun in his campaign for the governorship in an address before the Brotherhood of the First German Methodist church. The speech followed a dinner.

"I want to invite you men to vote $100,000,000 in your own pockets," he said, "by voting the state at the next election the right to sell the ore that is now held by you under lakes and water courses in Minnesota."

"Under the present constitution and laws the ore under water, which belongs to the people, cannot be sold unless the state is given the right to sell it. Under one lake alone it is estimated that there is 75,000,000 tons of iron ore which at the present value would bring a dollar a ton. There are more than twenty-five similar lakes in Northern Minnesota."

"The money obtained in this way would go to a permanent fund, the income of which would be used for roads and bridges throughout the state. With interest rates as they are at present this would mean at least $1,000,000 a year for this purpose and one of the greatest needs in this state is good roads."

"Minnesota has been paid for the sale of pine timber more than $7,500,000. That sum is more than Iowa and Wisconsin together have been paid for the sale of the timber lands. I am glad to learn that the present state auditor and the forestry department are co-operating in a system that will furnish a permanent timber supply for this state."

New York, Nov. 10.—The Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America was ordered by the appellate division of the supreme court to reinstate Meyer Solomon, discharged from the local union four years ago, and to pay him $875 damages.

Solomon contended that he was unable to secure employment without a union card.

NEW YORK MOSQUITO LIA- BILITY OF $325,000.

New York, Nov. 10.—It would cost New York city $325,000 to kill off the mosquitoes within its boundaries, according to an estimate of the state board of health submitted at a public hearing of the public health methods of ridding the city of the pests.

This estimate was based on the drainage of all swamp lands in the metropolitan area, of which there are 38,500 acres.

AUSTRIA MAY BE GIVEN WARNING

Sinking of Italian Vessel Disturbs Washington.

OFFICIALS AWAITING DETAILS

Whether the Ancona Was Torpedoed Without Warning or Tried to Escape and if There Were Any Americans on Board Are Points That Remain to Be Cleared Up.

Washington, Nov. 10.—News of the sinking of the Ancona caused a sensation here, as it was regarded as foreshadowing a new controversy between the United States and Austria similar to the critical dispute with Germany that followed the torpedoing of the Lusitania.

Before making any comment, however, officials awaited information on two points—whether the vessel was torpedoed without warning and whether any Americans were among the victims.

Should it develop that the Ancona was given warning and ignored it and attempted to escape the rules of naval warfare, according to Washington government's view, justified the use of force.

If it was attacked without warning and a case paralleling the Lusitania develops the attitude of the United States probably will be along the lines already followed with Germany—the dispatch of a note demanding disavowal of the act, reparation and assurances that such incidents will not occur in the future.

Officially Austria has never given the United States notice that she regarded the waters of the Mediterranean surrounding Italy as blockaded or that her submarines would torpedo merchantmen without warning.

This fact raises in the minds of some officials the point as to how far the negotiations and exchange of notes between the United States and Germany morally bound the Teutonic allies.

It was recalled that Dr. Dumba, then the Austro-Hungarian ambassador here, participated in some of the informal conversations with Secretary Bryan subsequent to the sinking of the Lusitania and became thoroughly familiar with the American position.

CROPS GOOD "OVER YONDER"

Alleges Uncle Believed Times More Prosperous in Other World.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 10.—Asserting that his dead uncle, a spiritualist, believed beyond death that he was able to communicate with a dead brother and that the brother had informed him that crops were good "over yonder," David Houston of Miami, Fla., will try to have declared invalid a deed by which his uncle conveyed to an Ellsworth (Minn.) man, a Deuel county farm which is estimated to be worth between $8,000 and $10,000. The uncle was Peter Houston of Cambria, Wis.

In his suit the nephew alleges that his uncle was incompetent to give the deed.

The nephew also alleges that his uncle, in the expectation of joining his brother on the other shore, where he believed times more prosperous, shot and killed several head of horses which he owned.

TAFT RED CROSS CHAIRMAN

Former President Will Head Central Committee.

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Wilson appointed former President William H. Taft chairman of the central committee of the American Red Cross, to succeed Major General George W. Davis, retired, General Davis resigned on account of ill health.

When General Davis determined recently to give up the work President Wilson, mindful of former President Taft's experience for many years as president of the Red Cross, wrote to him asking if he would accept the chairmanship. The president received a letter from Mr. Taft saying he would be very glad again to associate himself with the society's work. The appointment immediately followed.

Deliver Mail in Arctic Region

(By United Press)

Winnipeg, Nov. 10.—Rural free mail delivery in the Arctic circle is the latest accomplishment of the Winnipeg post office, and letters are beginning to collect at the local post office for residents in the "Land of the Midnight Sun."

On November 29 the first of these Arctic rural mail carriers will leave Edmonton, Alta. He will go as far north as Fort McPherson, and en route will deliver letters to settlers and squatters. He will then make several stages by horse and cutter. Soon the trails will be too heavy. The carrier will then adopt a dog sled to complete the greater portion of his journey. On Dec. 29, January 28 and February 25 other mails will leave for various parts of the Arctic circle and Herchell island, headquarters of San Francisco whalers.

No letters must weigh more than half an ounce and preference will be given those registered. If possible, newspapers will be taken, but the postal authorities consider it a waste of time to mail them as there are always sufficient letters to make up the load of one of these carriers.

TESTING A SHELL.

Ordeals Through Which a Big Gun Missile Must Pass.

THE SOFT NOSE PROJECTILE.

Its Ability to Bore Its Way Through Heavy Armor Plate Without Exploding Until After Its Impact Was Discovered by Accident.

Everybody knows that the modern shell is one of the most diabolical of man's inventions, but how many of us realize that it is also one of the most delicate and complicated?

Recently some firms holding contracts for making high explosive shells took upon themselves to "correct" a detail in the specification, and, as a result, a certain thread was "improved." They will never do anything of the kind again, because all their work was rejected. The apparent absurdity—it is, in fact, an absolute absurdity, from an engineering point of view—is designed of set purpose.

There is a somewhat similar anomaly in the big shell for penetrating armor plating, which was introduced in consequence of an accident. One day a test shell was fired at a piece of armor plating from the soft side, and the projectile went clean through it and exploded after impact, whereas a similar shell fired against the front—the hardened and tempered side—shattered and left an indentation of only a few inches.

This singular incident set somebody thinking, and in consequence the high explosive armor piercing shell is now given a soft nose. To the hard point is attached a cap of soft metal, with which addition it will go through the toughest piece of armor plate. What happens on impact seems to be this: The cap spreads, holding the point and so enabling it—remember that the shell is revolving rapidly—to force its way unbroken through the hard face of the plate by a sort of boring action.

No less curious is another fact concerning the points of such projectiles. After the heads have been worked the shells are left for weeks before they undergo the next stage, because, strong as they look, they are liable to snap.

Why? Think of the razor. Constant stropping twists the grain, with the result that the steel gets "fired" and will not yield a keen edge. But if you put the thing away for a few weeks the grain will return to its normal state, and you can get a satisfactory shave. In a similar way the grain of the steel is affected by working, though of course to a much lesser extent, and until it is "set" the makers must go cautiously. Steel shows a like eccentricity in the making of test gauges. Some of the measurements of shells are very fine, and the instruments employed are so delicate that they have to be used quickly lest the heat of the hand causes the metal to expand.

Now, when a groove is cut in a piece of steel which is to be used as a test gauge the work is laid aside for weeks, perhaps months. Why not finish it at once? Because the groove, though dead true when cut out, may be otherwise in a short time, even though it has been absolutely untouched.

As a concrete proof of the elaborate nature of projectile making take the case of the shrapnel shell. The steel portion undergoes about a score of operations, and the brass cartridge case attached to the base requires about sixteen, counting from the disk of sheet brass to the finished article. Then there is the fuse, the delicacy of which resembles watchmaking.

Altogether the shell is subjected to about forty inspections and may be rejected at any stage.

After a shell has survived this ordeal it ought to be, one would think, perfect, but a test shell is taken from every 120 and actually fired from a gun into a bank of sand. It is then again examined, and if the contour about the powder pocket is expanded away goes the whole batch, because if they were fired the grooving might be torn out of the gun.

Perhaps the most striking illustration of the minute care exercised in projectile making is that every shell is weighed over and over again. If you produce an eighteen pounder high explosive shell it must be only a few drams over or under its normal weight; otherwise it is rejected.

In this connection it may be of interest to note that an explosive shell that weighs only about seventy pounds will break into a shower of some 1,200 pieces. A single one of the monster projectiles fired from a fifteen inch naval gun will weigh 1,550 pounds. It takes twelve seconds for the projectile of a twelve inch naval gun to reach its point of impact when firing at a range of five miles. To fire a battleship broadside costs about $20,000.—Exchange.

Homemade Wire Solder.

Wire solder is made by punching small holes from one thirty-second to one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter in the bottom of a sheet iron pan along one side, holes to be one-half inch apart. Set the pan upon a flat plate of iron or a flat stone slab, pour in the solder and tip the pan so that solder will flow through the holes, drawing the pan along the slab fast enough to leave trains of solder cooling in the form of wires. This will require a few trials to succeed well and make the wire even.

DRAMA LEAGUE

Fortnightly Meeting Was Held at the Home of Mrs. Thomas Beare—
Paper Read by Mrs. Courtney

The fortnightly meeting of the Drama League was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thos. Beare.

A paper was given by Mrs. Walter Courtney on "The Style and Literary Merit of Sudermann as compared with Hauptmann." The play, "Mazda," by Sudermann, was read by Mrs. Courtney and Mrs. Donovan.

It was announced at the meeting that Faversham in the "Right of Way" would appear at the Grand on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Farewell Party

A number of the young friends of Carl W. Anderson gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Anderson last night, after the revival meeting, to bid him farewell. Conversation was indulged in and refreshments were served after which Prof. Carl J. Swanson read a chapter in the Gospel of St. John, and a short prayer meeting was held. The many friends expressed their regret to have him leave but wished him well in his new duties. Mr. Anderson left this afternoon for St. Cloud.

Swedish Mission Aid

QUARTER OF MILLION LOSS

Newspaper Plant of Secretary Daniels Destroyed.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 8.—The entire plant and building of the News and Observer, owned by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, has been destroyed by fire. The large printing establishment of E. M. Uzzell & Co., also is a complete loss. Some small stores are either partially or completely destroyed.

W. H. Bagley, business manager of the News and Observer, was painfully but not seriously injured by a falling piece of machinery while attempting to get books out of the building.

Estimates of the property loss are about $250,000.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled. This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

At The Best

Tonight The Best Theatre will present that famous Scandinavian actress, Betty Nansen, in "A Woman's Resurrection," the play is adapted from Tolstol's masterpiece of the same name.

In "A Woman's Resurrection" as pictured for William Fox, Count Leo Tolstol wrote what is admittedly his greatest and most powerful book. In fact it may be said to have echoed its message round the world of thought. Exceptionally dramatic, it makes a magnificent vehicle for the famous Betty Nansen, who is starred in it.

Prince Dimitri Nekluhoff (William J. Kelly) comes to pass the Eastern holidays with his aunt, Countess Sophia Ivanova (Anne Sptherland). He is a dashing young officer, good looking, spirited and full of the joy of life. Katusha Maslova, (Betty Nansen) a beautiful young peasant girl, comes to the house of the Countess with a letter of introduction. The butler takes her letter and gives it to the Countess. It informs her that Katusha will enter her service as her companion. The Countess receives Katusha graciously and as the girl is leaving the room with her they encounter Dimitri.

The Countess assures Katusha that she will be a second mother to her, and Dimitri pats her on the shoulder as in kindly pity. In the meantime, Simonson, (Edward Jose) the superintendent of the Countess' estate, has been found by Selenin Tscharvianski, the manager of the Countess' affairs, instructing the peasants and educating them in his spare time. Selenin roughly tells him that "education be damned, they are here for work, the dogs." Selenin loses his pocket book and suspects that Simonson stole it. Simonson has found the pocketbook, but returns it and then Selenin promptly discharges him. Katusha sympathizes with Simonson and after the old man has left, Dimitri discovers her crying. He asks her what the matter is, and he consoles her, telling her that for her sake he will take Simonson into his own service.

Ivan Shonbock, (Arthur Hoops) a young aristocrat, is a bosom friend and brother officer of Dimitri. Some time has passed since Katusha entered the Countess' service. Shonbock and Dimitri are ordered to the front.

That night, Katusha is kneeling in prayer in her bedroom, when Dimitri enters. She tells him that he must leave the room at once. But after a slight struggle, Dimitri clasps her in his arms and their lips meet in a clinging embrace. The next day Dimitri and Shonbock say farewell to the Countess and to her household, and as the sleigh dashes down the driveway, the last sight that Dimitri has of Katusha is her tear-stained face, gazing sadly after him, from an upper window.

The weeks pass. Dimitri and Shonbock find that a sudden switch in the plans of campaign has resulted in their having some spare time and they re-visit the Countess.

Dimitri and the indulgent Countess go to her library so that she can write him a check, as his funds are low. This leaves Shonbock and Katusha alone together. Shonbock treats her with an easy familiarity and the insolent admiration of an aristocrat toward a dependent. He indulges in several coarse familiarities and is about to embrace her when Simonson enters the room. Simonson fixes Shonbock with a glance and Shonbock turns away discomfited. Katusha leaves the house and hastens down the road to a point where she knows that she can intercept Dimitri, as he and Shonbock ride away from the mansion. Katusha tearfully demands of Dimitri what is going to become of her.

He presses a hundred ruble note into her hand, and shrugging his shoulders, rides off. She looks after him and then at the money that she has crushed in her clasped hand. Suddenly she reels, and falls unconscious on the snowy road. Simonson enters and carries her unconscious form into the mansion. Months elapse. Katusha has fled from the mansion of the Countess to hide her shame and her child has died. As the years pass, Katusha learns the shady side of life and finally she accepts the offer of some of the flashy women friends that she has made to be introduced "to some rich guys from the country." They have a hilarious time and the corks pop furiously. Jacoby, who is the wealthiest of the party becomes wildly intoxicated. Katusha wishes to leave but Jacoby holds her back. She is furious at first, but when he gives her his big diamond ring, she agrees to share another bottle with him. One of the other girls says to Katusha while handing her a powder. "Put some of this stuff in his wine, and he'll be able to get away."

The next day, while Katusha is still sleeping off the debauch of the night before, the police enter her room. They discover Jacoby's ring and also the remainder of the sleeping potion. She is arrested, and thrown in a cell with the female scum of the city.

Dimitri, by a strange and grim turn of fate is summoned to serve on the jury that is to try Katusha. She is found guilty of giving Jacoby the poison with intent to kill, and is sentenced for life to the mines of Siberia. Dimitri whom the years have changed from a thoughtless young officer into a thinking man, is a prey to bitter remorse. He realizes that it is through his act that Katusha has sunk to such a depth of degradation. He visits the prison and begs Katusha to let him repair the wrong he has done her by making her his wife. She furiously denounces him. Dimitri resolves to follow this hardened woman who was once an innocent young girl, through all the horrors of Siberia. Shonbock is in charge of the dreary expedition, to the frozen land of lost hopes and despair.

Dimitri follows when the expedition starts. Simonson also, although he has been forbidden to accompany his master, follows him. Shonbock lures Katusha into his office. He locks it and wants her to have a drink with him. She refuses and screams as Shonbock brutally seizes her. Just then Dimitri and Simonson, with revolvers in hand, break through the door.

Dimitri shouts to Shonbock to defend himself, or he will shoot him down. Shonbock picks up another pistol, both men fire, but it is Shonbock who falls. Shonbock's bullet strikes Katusha, wounding her mortally. Simonson carries the dying woman to a couch, while Dimitri, his face contorted with grief, bends over her. The guards enter the room to arrest the murderer of Shonbock. The devoted Simonson steps forward and gives himself up, and saves his master's life as the scene fades out. Between two guards he is led to instant execution, while Dimitri, his face buried in his hands, sinks beside the dead Katusha.

Never was there seen such a crowd waiting to see a moving picture as there was last night at the Best theatre. The "White Sister" not only proved to be a marvelous photoplay but it has showed the people of Brainerd that The Best Theatre Co. is surely doing all in their power to give the people such photo-plays as they appreciate.—Advertisement.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Grand

At about seven o'clock tonight hundreds of families will be discussing the advisability of attending the Grand and seeing America's foremost actor in his first appearance on the screen. His vehicle is "The Right of Way." Critics claim his impersonation of Charlie Steel is beyond comparison, not only because of his ability as an actor but because the character he impersonates is so different that it defies comparison. A man deprived of all recollection of the past whose constant query was "Who Knows" causing the good, people about him to stand aside in horror for they were one and all satisfied that "God Knows". A man who could strike terror into the heart of a hardened criminal by a simple adjustment of his monacle.

A man who knew no fear until he received his answer and found that "God Knows". Men he feared to lose and by so doing won.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only and Brainerd People Appreciate This

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys. Here in Brainerd evidence proves their worth.

Mrs. G. W. Hall, 613 Third Ave., N. E. Brainerd, says: "I had frequent attacks of backache with dizziness. I felt languid mornings and was caused inconvenience by the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills removed all these troubles. Others of the family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with equally good results." (Statement given October 12, 1910.)

OVER THREE YEARS LATER Mrs. Hall said: "I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. The relief they made has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hall had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Advt.

Preacher Was Laid Up

Rev. C. M. Knighton, Havana, Fla., writes: "For three months I suffered intense pain in the kidneys and back which at times laid me up entirely. I used one and a half bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and all the pain disappeared. I felt as if 20 years had been added to my life." Relieves rheumatism, backache, sore muscles, stiff joints. H. P. ## Yoshihito, Emperor of Japan Today

By United Press Staff Correspondent

Kyoto, Japan, Nov. 10.—Emperor Yoshihito's coronation here today was the first coronation in 25 centuries that representatives of the people have been permitted to attend. The Japanese people are greatly pleased.

Today's rather simple and brief ceremony, marking the accession of Yoshihito to the place handed down "by divine right" from his forefathers who were emperors "before the dawn of history," is the climax of the six-weeks' accession program for which the Diet appropriated $2,000,000.

Members of the Court, Ministers of State, members of the Diplomatic Corps and members of the Diet, representing the people, attired in the gorgeous silver and golden ceremonial robes of the ancients, were nowhere to be seen when the foreign representatives were heralded to their seats before the Imperial scarlet canopy to the sound of flutes and drums, hidden in Shunkyoden Temple.

It may be several hours before the signal will be given and the doors of the sanctuary, where the Jewel, the Sword and the Mirror are kept, are opened and the offering spread before the altar. Then will enter the Emperor, followed by the Princes of the Blood, Ministers and coronation commissioners. After a brief silence the Emperor will read an address to the gathered spirits of his dead ancestors, telling them he has assumed the place they left for him.

Those at the coronation then will do homage to the new Emperor and he will sit down upon the seat of The Son of Heaven. Later he will publicly proclaim his accession to his subjects generally. Days of feasting and celebration will follow the ceremony proper of today.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 10.—Miss Flora Dulap, state president and Mrs. Frank Didson, campaign manager, are making a house to house campaign for women's suffrage all over Iowa, to be completed before the constitutional amendment goes to a vote in June. So far the canvass is said to show a strong suffrage sentiment. One woman contributed her gold teeth to the campaign fund, now $4,000.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 10.—C. A. Myers, for the second time prepared to mount the scaffold today. This time there was expected to be no hitch in the proceedings. Myers, convicted of shooting A. W. Montague, was sentenced to be hanged last September. A few minutes before the execution the court ordered a stay until Myers, sanity could be investigated. He was pronounced sane by a jury and resented last month.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Leading authorities on public utility problems were here today at the Conference on Valuations. The theories under which valuations of utility properties should be made have excited great interest since Congress ordered that the valuations of all railroads be completed within five years.

IN FIVE MINUTES! NO INDIGESTION, GAS OR SOUR, ACID STOMACH

The Moment "Pape's Diapepsin" Reaches the Stomach all Distress Goes

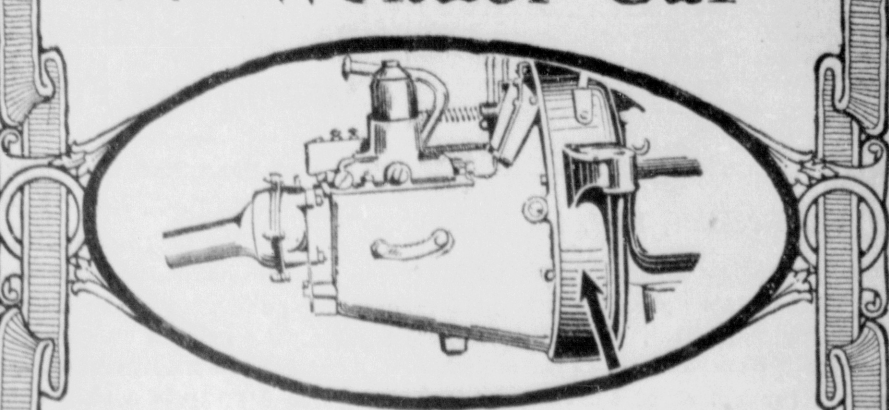

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.—Advt.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Try this! Mix Sage Tea and Sulphur and brush it through your hair, taking one strand at a time.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and lustrous. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

A PEASANT EFFECT.

A royal blue velvet is used for this peasant gown. The snugly fitted bodice has an apron-like tunic, while the effect is further accentuated by the pockets, which are set like those on a Normandy apron. The short skirt is quite full, and the V shaped neck is finished with a turnover collar lined with white satin.

Eat Onions.

Regular onion eaters rarely if ever fall ill from infectious diseases, and they are singularly immune from practically all ailments. Onions, too, are a grand specific for the complexion. They should be boiled whole in milk—with bread and butter and cheese. Then they make a satisfying and nutritious meal, on which you can do brain work or manual labor. Try onions. The taste and after smell? A mouthful of hot coffee takes away both.—London Mail.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 10, 1915.

Minnesota's presidential preference primary law, the only one of its kind, may be taken to the supreme court for a test of its constitutionality and perhaps thrown aside as useless and unworkable. Under Minnesota's preference primary law, the first election was to be held March 14, next, but Secretary of State Julius Schmahl announced today that it was unworkable and undoubtedly would have to be taken to the supreme court for a ruling. "It is a very fine theory," said Schmahl, "but I have been laying awake nights figuring out a way to put it into practice." If the law is held valid, Minnesota will be the battling ground for the presidential candidates next March, just as North Dakota, Illinois and Ohio were the popular battling grounds for public favor during the national election of 1913. The reason for this early battle of the political lights is to secure the first blood in preparation for the fights to a finish at the November election. Minnesota, if the law is held valid, will be the first state to register the trend of popular favor.

"Preparedness" is a term which is becoming general in the United States in relation to war on other nations. Why not apply it to a more dangerous condition of affairs in Minnesota and other states, says Robert W. Hargadine, State Fire Marshal.

If the operators of the factory at Pittsburgh had adopted the principle of preparedness the newspapers would not be ringing with the news of the death of thirteen persons by a factory fire last Monday.

"The flames started in a pile of straw and the fire escapes were inadequate," was the reason given for the fire which snuffed out the lives of twelve young women.

Obviously somebody's carelessness was to blame for that disaster. If proper precautions had been taken to keep the premises clean and to permit no inflammable material to accumulate the chances are one hundred to one no tragedy would have been recorded.

It is probably too much to assert that such an accident could not happen in Minnesota, but if the suggestions on "Preparedness" sent out by the Fire Marshal's Department are acted upon the possibility of loss of life in factory fires is reduced to a minimum.

These suggestions are not hard to follow. They are warnings to keep all premises clean; keep inflammable materials in fireproof compartments

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervy wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost, but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

if possible, and keep passageways to fire escapes clear; above all, teach the lesson of "Preparedness" to all employees, and the possibility of such a disaster as that at Pittsburgh is reduced to a minimum.

What the LaFollett Seaman Law Provides

By United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10—Here is just what the new LaFollette Seamen's act provides for owners, sailors and public, with the Commerce department's rulings on certain sections of the law incorporated.

Section 1 compels a ship captain, short-handed during a voyage to fill vacancies with men of the same or higher rating before proceeding. Section 2 makes 9 hours a day's work in port. Section 3 provides that for every day's delay in collecting his wages, a man gets double pay.

Section 4 provides that in any port a sailor on any ship may collect half his pay or complain to U. S. officers and get full pay and the right to quit.

Section 5 rules that a majority of the common crew may have the ship examined for seaworthiness, or its supplies for quality, by U. S. agents. Section 6 bids goodby to the fore-castle of fiction. There must be a berth for each man in a clean room drained and ventilated and with shower bath. There must be a ship's hospital.

When a sailor quits, says Section 7, he cannot be imprisoned or forced to work. For insubordination he may be placed in irons and for assaulting an officer, imprisoned 2 days.

Section 9 prohibits flogging sailors. If the master of a vessel fails to deliver such an offender, he and the vessel owners are liable for damages. Section 10 gives 2 ounces of butter and 5 quarts of water to each sailor, daily.

Section 11 prohibits sailors assigning wages to employment offices or saloons. Wages can be assigned only to near relatives. Section 12 prohibits garnishment of wages except by courts acting for near relatives.

Section 13 requires 75% of each crew to understand officers' orders; but orders are all they need understand. Forty per cent of the crew must be able seamen. This will gradually rise to 65 per cent in 1920. An able seaman must have had 3 years service on the seas or great lakes.

Each lifeboat shall be in charge of an able seaman. Ships more than 20 miles from shore must have lifeboats and liferafts for all, except from May 15 to Sept. 15, when there must be boats and rafts for 70 per cent. On the great lakes, boats for 20 per cent and rafts for 30 per cent are required. Section 15 requires any barge losing a passenger or sailor to report it.

Section 16 and 17 give foreign sailors the right to quit foreign ships in U. S. harbors. All treaties requiring U. S. officers to hunt such deserters are abrogated by Section 8. Section 19 provides that a sailor ill away from home, is to be cared for by a U. S. consul.

GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8, 1915—A summary of preliminary estimates of crop production and prices, for the State of Minnesota and for the United States, compiled by the Bureau of Crop Estimates (and transmitted through the Weather Bureau) U. S. Department of Agriculture, is as follows:

Corn:—Estimate this year 62,900,000 bu., final estimate last year 91,000,000; price November 1 to producers 62 cts. per bu., year ago 55 cts.

Wheat:—Estimate this year 73,900,000 bu., final estimate last year 42,975,000; price November 1 to producers 87 cts. per bu., year ago 100 cents.

ARNARCHY FOLLOW PROLONGATION OF WAR IN ENGLAND

By J. W. T. Mason, for United Press

Lord Loreburn's grave warning in the house of lords, that anarchy would follow the prolongation of the war indefinitely, is certain to have an effect on the belligerent statesmen, even though for the moment it makes no impression on public opinion. Lord Loreburn is one of Europe's most brilliant lawyers and deepest thinkers. He was lord chancellor of Great Britain between 1905 and 1912 and is an intense liberal in politics. He has always been noted for blurring out the truth, however inconvenient the truth might be to others, and he has owed his rise to that unusual characteristic as much as to the admirable judgment which almost always has been shown to reside in his opinions.

Undoubtedly, whatever Lord Loreburn says in the open, in a time of grave crisis, many minds of first rank are privately thinking. Under this condition it frequently needs but a publicly spoken word to cause men at large to unbuckle their half timorously concealed thoughts. There can be little question but the Baron Loreburn's picture of Europe after the war as a wilderness inhabited mostly by old people and children will produce changes of opinion among statesmen concerning the consequences to the world if the war is fought to the end.

These changes may even occur between representatives of enemy powers, if it be true that Prince von Buelow is now in Switzerland for the purpose of discovering a possible basis for peace. The most fundamental of all peace bases is a realization of the consequences that would result if peace were refused and if the war were to continue to a condition of exhaustion.

Lord Loreburn's warning of the specter of anarchy lurking in the background of the present conflict must be accepted as a positive contribution to the cause of peace. It is one of the growing number of indications that Europe gradually is emerging from the condition of blind hatred which prevailed earlier in the war. This does not mean that peace will probably be declared immediately, but it unquestionably does mean that the way is being cleared for an exchange of peace views among the belligerents. How long it will take before the way is finally opened, no one can tell. If the other combatant countries have statesmen possessing Lord Loreburn's frankness, and if the warning of what a prolonged war means to Europe are frequently repeated, the arrival of peace will be much hastened.

Revolutionizing London's Night Shirt

By WILBUR S. FORREST

United Press Staff Correspondent
 London, Oct. 13 (by mail)—London's nightshirt is a fearful and wonderful garment, and Count Zeppelin is responsible for this "nightly" revolution.

Since the Count's Zeps have been Zeppizing London, no self respecting Londoner has gone to bed in anything unfit for public gaze.

Tasteful blue and pink pyjamas, masculine and feminine variety, the later beribboned and frilled, are vogue. They have almost entirely superseded the good old homely unfilled "nightie." Fancy red, blue or pink slippers to match the gorgeous "nighties" are also most proper, while it is intimated in the best circles that nightcaps—not liquid ones—have come back to their very own.

Patent hair curlers have been discarded by the women. No feminine Londoner, says good authority, will take the risk of being "zepped" in these, at least, not in the "zeppizing" season.

London shopkeepers have let the cat out of the bag. While signing a rush order for hundreds of pairs of the latest model pyjamas, the proprietor of a big London store explained:

"No stage hero in his most admired pyjamas scene is better attired today than the average 'bedroom' Londoner. Mens pyjamas are, of course, the plain article, but the feminine ones have gotten into a class of their own."

The October, 1915, model of the "female pyjama" comes in a pink crepe de chine, cut on a more or less mannish angle and frilled at the waist and ankles with delicately tinted silk ribbon. Another popular model composes a one piece suit with a high waist-line and a high neck. Fancy buttons adorn this model—for decorative purposes only.

Pink and blue are the prevailing colors, though there is some talk, say the shopkeepers, of introducing a "Joffre grey." It's a more invisible color.

Nightcaps, whose usage had begun to cease, are adding to the splendor of the newest nightdresses. Women, so intrepid as to defy Count Zep and attach the patent curlers, find the nightcap a blessed relief. The latest mode takes the form, principally, of the old Neapolitan cap, sewn of thin yet durable enough material to successfully disguise the curlers or "washerwoman's knots."

Whether the Germans know it or not, the demand for bedroom slippers runs to the fancy Turkish model. But so long as no Turkish imports are available and the brand can be made in England, there is no harm in supplying the demand, believe the London shopkeepers.

SALARIES DOUBLED

This is the day of the trained man and the trained woman. There is no longer an opportunity to serve an apprenticeship in a business office. The banker, the manufacturer, the railroad man is to busy to train young people for commercial positions. There is a better way.

Schools have been established that in a single year can double—yes, treble the earning power of the average young man and young woman. Even if an apprenticeship were possible, it would be foolish to spend years in a business office in doing what can be done in the Little Falls Business College in months.

The Little Falls Business College is a place where our leading business men of tomorrow are being thoroughly trained today.

YOU should enter college soon—next Monday.

BLAIR-GUITH CASE TO JURY

Attorneys Conclude Arguments in the Damage Case Tried in the District Court

JUDGE CHARGES THE JURY

Guith Denied That he did Anything Wrong, Stated Relationship was
That of Neighbors

Jury in the Blair-Guith Case

2. Tony Bohlke, merchant, Hubert.
3. George Fruth, farmer, Daggett Brook.
4. John Dickson, farmer, Pelican Lake.

10. Sivert Olson retired farmer, Brainerd.
11. A. J. Starritt, Windsor hotel, Brainerd.
12. Andrew Nelson, farmer, Sibley.

The case of Charles L. Blair vs William A. Guith, wherein Blair sues Guith for $25,000 damages, charging alienation of his wife's affections, went to the jury at 11:30 this morning.

Court then adjourned to 1:30 this afternoon.

In his arguments to the jury Attorney D. J. Severance, of Crosby, attached the testimony of the plaintiff and their witnesses. In referring to the occurrence at Champlin, near Anoka, Attorney Severance said no woman would permit her sister to suffer such an indignity, she would call a policeman.

"You, gentlemen of the jury, have sisters. Would we not apply to the law to protect us?" asked Attorney Severance. "No police were called" said Mr. Severance.

The defense started with its testimony on Tuesday noon. Guith swore that the relationship of himself and the Blairs was neighborly and friendly, that he visited their home on the invitation of both. He denied any wrong doing. On Monday Guith had been under cross-examination nearly all day by the plaintiff's attorneys.

Edward Schubinsky, deputy sheriff of Duluth, called by the plaintiff, testified that he went to the home of Blair in Crosby with a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Guith for the arrest of Mrs. Blair and Guith.

He served Mrs. Blair first. He called Mrs. Blair to the door and said he had a warrant to serve on her and that she should get ready to take the train back to Duluth.

Mrs. Blair asked the deputy sheriff if she had time to change her waist and she stepped to an inner room and took carbolic acid. The deputy sheriff helped give her eggs and other antidotes.

He said he was called in by one of the ladies who said Mrs. Blair had fainted, but he smelled the carbolic acid himself.

"I took one wine glass full to end it all," said Mrs. Blair to the deputy sheriff.

Then she turned to her husband, Mr. Blair, and said: "You are the cause of all this trouble," and died.

The above, in extent, was the testimony as given by Deputy Sheriff Schubinsky.

Mrs. Jennie S. Moody, of the district court at Duluth, said no indictment was pending in Duluth against Guith.

The defense introduced Margaret Kellerman as a witness. She was a hired girl of the Guiths. She testified that she saw Blair come in and have a conversation with Guith. Blair had said to Guith: "My wife has been arrested and you will be. I have no funds. Look out for her (Mrs. Blair) while you (Guith and Mrs. Blair) are in Duluth."

W. M. Infelt, Crosby, testified he saw early one morning Guith's automobile come along. Guith and Mrs. Blair were on the front seat. She had her arm about Guith's neck and Mr. Blair was on the back seat and as they went along, Blair said: "Hello, Bill!"

Thomas Jordan, Crosby, said he saw riding in a car Mrs. Blair and Guith who had a front seat. Mrs. Blair was on the back seat. Mrs. Blair had her arm around Guith's neck.

D. R. Hillis, Crosby, said he saw Guith, Mr. and Mrs. Blair, drive up to the Spalding hotel saloon in 1913 and Blair and Guith got out, went into the saloon and Mrs. Blair remained seated in the auto.

Edgar G. Ingalls, Crosby, said he had taken Guith, Mr. and Mrs. Blair on many rides in his launch on Serpent lake.

Bert Winslow, Brainerd, testified that while agent of the Fitzer Brewing Co. he had delivered eight or ten cases of beer to the Blair home on order of Guith and which beer was paid for by Guith.

R. P. Gillette, Crosby, said he saw Blair at the Crosby hotel and the latter called up W. A. Guith on the telephone and said: "Is that you, Bill?" Blair then said: "My wife (Mrs. Blair) is over at Louie's when you want her."

John Koppel, Crosby, verified the testimony of Gillette. Clarence Rice, Crosby, manager of the telephone company, said he met Guith, Mr. and Mrs. Blair on the street and had some talk with Guith, and Blair said to Guith, "When you get through with Rice go down to the house with the woman and I'll be down shortly." That was in June, 1913.

Ben Frodl, Crosby, said Guith and Blair played pool at his hall and Blair paid for it.

R. T. Louie, Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Blair and Guith were many times at his home in Crosby and were on the best of terms.

Guith testified that he had paid several bills for Blair and also handed him money in saloons and billiard halls and Frodl also testified that a bill was run against Blair and that Guith paid the bill.

In his closing arguments Attorney Russell claimed the woman's affections had been alienated, and claimed it was proven by the letters offered in testimony and by the testimony of the deputy sheriff from Duluth.

At the close of Attorney Russell's address to the jury, Attorney Severance for the plaintiff took exception to statements made by Mr. Russell as being unsupported by the evidence. There was nothing in the evidence that Guith had walked up and down in the court room laughing while the letters of his, addressed to Mrs. Blair were being read in court.

Judge W. S. McClenahan charged the jury and advised them that the case was to be judged by them according to the evidence as presented by the record. It was an action to recover damages for alleged alienations of affections of the wife by the defendant.

"Were the affections of plaintiff's wife alienated? That was the first inquiry addressing itself to the jury. If they were not, that was the end of the case and no damages would result.

If lost, were they traceable to defendant and was he responsible for the result?

The case was one which had taken a rather wide range, the evidence covering a lot of details having no direct bearing on the case, which the jury was to decide.

One feature of the case, a part of the record, was the death of Mrs. Blair. She died in 1913 because of self-administered poison. The case at issue was not an action to recover damages for her death.

The wrong complained of was that plaintiff was deprived of the affections of his wife before her death.

The purpose of the law was to protect the domestic relations and it will give such redress as possible under the circumstances and it gives the right to claim money compensation. The jury was to consider all the evidence and to reach a just conclusion.

If the jury found the plaintiff was entitled to recover, they were to exercise their best conclusions as to the amount of the damages. It was hard to lay down a hard and fast rule as to how the damages should be estimated. They were to consider the value of the affections of the wife and the humiliation placed on the husband. Judge McClenahan explained the difference between punitive and compensatory damages.

The court could not determine the facts for the jury. The jury was to determine the credibility of the witnesses. They were exclusive judges of this.

Judge McClenahan explained the five-sixths jury law. If no unanimous agreement was reached in 12 hours, then the jury could return a five-sixths verdict, that is ten of them could agree on a verdict.

Shall Woman Propose?

Of course women should propose. It is women who change their entire lives by matrimony; it is women who take on colossal responsibility by matrimony. The woman should surely be allowed to choose the man for whom she feels herself able to work and give.

Men propose; men have had it all in their own hands up to now, and if they have married the wrong woman they have only themselves to blame for it.—Women of the World.

BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

Brainerd Merchants Report Good Increase in Trade. Record of the Establishments Noted

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING SOON

Stoves and Ranges Selling Readily, W. S. Orne's Report on Business Transacted

Business in general throughout Brainerd is greatly improving. W. S. Orne, the Laurel street merchant, says he sold more stoves the last 15 days than in a year previous.

At John Larson's a steady stream of people has been buying charcoal to start coal fires. D. M. Clark & Co., Slipp-Gruenhagen & Co., C. M. Patek & Son, W. E. Lively and S. B. Hayden report big sales in stoves, ranges, etc.

At the Woolworth store records are kept each day and week sale and comparisons are made with the amount of business transacted for the same period of the past year. A. Huston, manager of the 5 and 10 cent store, said last week showed a 42 per cent gain over business done in the same period last year. Last Saturday gained 58 per cent over the corresponding Saturday of last year.

Christmas is coming soon, only a few weeks distant, and shops of the city are getting gay with decorations of Yule Tide. The shopper who wishes to give a gift in which her own personality is given play, buys her articles now and fashions them into a present which often gives more cheer than the present bought haphazard the last minute. To such a shopper the stores have much to offer. However, it is not within the province of the Dispatch to call attention to displays of merchandise, that is more properly done by the merchant in his advertisement.

At the O. Skauge drug store a piano contest is arousing interest and causing increasing business. At the Lammon drug store an anniversary sale is soon to be announced. Dunn's and Johnson's report more business.

The cold weather is stimulating the clothing business and H. W. Linemann, Johnson Bros. & Halberg, Bye & Peterson and others report larger sales. Merchant tailors are also flourishing, being Karl Killian, A. G. Lagerquist, Jens Molstad, Johnson & Holvick, C. H. Schwabe, Louis Broman and others.

Pretty things in profusion can be found at the H. F. Michael store, at Murphy's, "The Store of Quality," L. M. Koop's, O'Brien Mercantile Co., B. Kaatz & Son, Miller Cloak & Hat Shop, E. H. Jones, Wm. Mattson and other stores. The Brainerd Bargain Store, Mahlum block, offers many bargains. Fred Luken will soon receive a large stock of toys.

Stores in Brainerd take especial satisfaction in comparing their values in cloaks, hats, suits, etc., with anything a customer may display in an offering from a catalog house.

Merchants of Brainerd in general have the goods right here in stock. A customer can examine what he intends to purchase. She can see for herself. She does not have to take a glowing description from a catalog page and an equally glowing picture, as evidence of what her purchase will be. She has the pleasure of trying on the article, of seeing for herself what it is and added to this all, is the satisfaction of patronizing a home industry and thus indirectly helping to build up a bigger and better Brainerd.

Right living and right thinking build up the character of a family, but the idea of buying should not be depreciated and it should be drilled into the minds of every master of the home. "Buy in Brainerd everything you possibly can."

WELL DESERVED PROMOTION

C. C. Kyle, Formerly of this City, is Made Superintendent in Charge of Maintenance

A bulletin issued from the office of the president of the Northern Pacific road, states that effective November 1, 1915, Mr. C. C. Kyle is appointed superintendent in charge of maintenance and operation of the Northern Pacific general offices in the new railroad building at St. Paul, reporting to the president.

For many years Mr. Kyle was a resident of Brainerd and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his promotion.

CHAS. G. SUNLEY DEAD

Veteran Railway Engineer Passed Away, was with Northern Pacific Railway Since 1879

Charles Glendenning Sunley, born Nov. 28, 1854 in Guelph, Canada, died this morning from a complication of diseases. He first started railroading with the Michigan Central as a fireman in the year 1872 and was promoted to the post of engineer in 1877. In 1879 he went to work for the Northern Pacific.

He was married June 21, 1907 to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Pratt at Madison, S. D. They had no children. He was taken sick about three years ago, suffering first a stroke of apoplexy. One hundred or more of his friends on the railway system at that time appealed for a pension for him and the good words spoken of him made a deep impression on his wife and relations. He left active service on the road on account of heart trouble and was night round house foreman at the Northern Pacific railway shops for 16 months.

He was a member of the Masons, belonging to the lodge in Brainerd which he joined thirty years ago. He was also a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of Duluth. His last run, which he held twenty years was the passenger run from Duluth to Staples. He was the oldest engineer on the Lake Superior division. As a teacher, instructor and advisor he was without equal.

Mr. Sunley was a good man, temperate, hard working, faithful in the discharge of his duties and well liked by his employers and associates. It is with genuine sorrow that his many companions heard of his passing away and to the widow and his family are given the deep sympathy of the community.

He leaves a brother Alvin Sunley of Toledo, Ohio, and two sisters in Jackson, Mich.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon under Masonic auspices, Rev. G. Sheridan officiating. Further announcements of the funeral will be made tomorrow.

From the records of the Masons in Brainerd, Mr. Sunley joined the Brainerd lodge in Dec. 21, 1888. He was previously a member of Golden Sheaf Lodge, No. 123 of Morris, Minn.

A Peculiarity of Husbands.

Whoever said all men may not be alike, but all husbands are, knew a good deal about husbands. Horatio is a husband—mine. One of his peculiarities is to ask me if I do anything a little unusual, what on earth I did it for. In a tone I have noticed in other husbands, and when he uses that tone I never tell him. A woman doesn't always know why she does things, does not always have time to think in advance. She only knows she must do them and thinks afterward.—Kate Langley Bosher in Harper's Magazine.

Washing Knitted Articles.

When washing crocheted or knitted articles first sew them in a pillowcase and then proceed to wash them. Squeeze the bag in the soapy water, but do not rub or wring it. Simply press out as much water as you can and then hang the bag in the air to drain and dry. When it is thoroughly dry rip open the pillowcase, and the articles will be found in good shape.

Styles of Architecture.

In their architecture the Moors strove for the negation of the weight altogether. The Egyptian placed the weight firmly on the ground, the Greek lifted it up in the air with an assertion of graceful power. The Roman confused weight and support; the Byzantine represented weight without support; the Moor suggested that there was no weight at all.

By Sir Gilbert Parker—Five Acts One of the most wonderful photoplays ever screened. One can hardly imagine its magnitude.

The man who must have the motto of his business engraved upon his stationery and written in his ads is apt to forget it only when he is writing a letter or writing his ad. It is much more important to have one's motto engraved on one's heart and mind. Then it will take form in action, not words.

The man who keeps his mind on what his neighbor is showing, on wondering what his competitor's box office receipts are, and in trying to think up ways to get ahead of him, neglects his own business. His mind is held down to petty jealousy, instead of rising to the possibilities of his own theatre. He is trying to usurp the place his competitor may hold in the community, or to establish himself as an exhibitor, who is like his fellow manager, instead of bending every energy to establish a place for himself. We believe that friendly rivalry is stimulating, if the exhibitor lets it be the force which drives him on to greater and more original accomplishments. But one of the first things an exhibitor must keep in mind is that he must attend to his own business.

SERBIAN ARMIES IN GRAVE PERIL

Teutons and Bulgarians Drawing Net Tighter.

FALL BACK ON MOUNTAINS

Invaders Are Now Nearing Most Difficult Part of Serbia, Where the Defenders Are Expected to Offer the Strongest Resistance.

London, Nov. 10.—Every day, every hour adds to the peril of the Serbian armies which are fighting desperately to hold back the Austro-Germans, pressing them from the north, and the Bulgarians, invading their country from the east, until the assistance their allies are sending can reach them.

The Bulgarians have extended their grip on the Belgrade-Saloniki railway north and south of Nish and have occupied Lesovac, south of the capital, and Aleksinac, to the north. At the latter point they are in close touch with the German army, which, after occupying Krusevac, extended its left wing as far as Djunis, on the left bank of the Bulgar Morava.

The Austro-Germans, advancing southward, are making progress except in the west, where they are being held by the Montenegrins. The invading forces are now reaching the most difficult part of Serbia, the mountainous region, where the natives, knowing every hill and gully, can offer the strongest resistance.

In the south the ever growing strength of the French and British forces is beginning to tell. They are carrying on an energetic offensive against the Bulgarians; have managed to keep the railway clear as far as Velest and are barring the Bulgars' route to Monastir.

While it will be some time before the Germans can sufficiently repair the northern end of the railway for the transport of troops and munitions their successes have enabled them to send supplies to the Bulgarians and Turks, by the Danube, as far as Nikopolis, from which point they can be sent by rail to Sofia and Constantinople.

CHECK ON WAR DODGERS

British Officials Take Steps to Prevent Emigration.

London, Nov. 10.—The British government took its first definite step toward preventing emigration of able-bodied British subjects, who in considerable numbers have been using this means of evading military service.

A new regulation was issued by the home office requiring subjects of the United Kingdom, who are nineteen years old or more and contemplating emigration, to apply at the foreign office for passports.

Since the refusal of the Cunard company to carry abroad British subjects eligible for military service, last Saturday, the Anchor line and the White Star line have adopted an identical course. Other lines are expected to take similar action.

PLANNING TO BUILD AMERICAN SHIPS

Creation of Merchant Marine Is Object of Congress.

TREATIES ARE AN OBSTACLE

Proposition to Grant a 10 Per Cent Discrimination in Favor of American Ships Likely to Be Brought Forward When Congress Convenes—Treaties Disregarded Since War Started.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Many years ago when such men as Mark Hanna, William P. Frye and Seneca E. Payne were struggling for a ship subsidy bill men of the more practical type, like Stephen B. Elkins, said: "The country will not stand for a subsidy. What should be done is to grant a 10 per cent rebate on duties for all goods carried in American ships to this country."

"Oh, but all our treaties with the favored nation clause stand in the way," replied Frye, who was so long on the foreign relations committee that he had become imbued with the idea of sacredness concerning a treaty.

"Then abrogate the treaties," retorted the practical Elkins. "A treaty can be abrogated. The power that made it can give notice of its intention to terminate it."

But Frye looked at him pityingly, as if he felt sorry for him and probably deplored the idea of a practical business man in the senate.

May Be Brought Forward.

It is possible that the proposition to grant a 10 per cent discrimination in favor of American ships will be brought forward in opposition to the ship purchase bill during the coming session of congress. It should meet with more favor now than ever before. The sacredness of a treaty will not be so impressive as it was before the European war. The "scrap of paper" idea gains ground. We have definite treaties with Great Britain, and yet American shipping has been seized, goods confiscated and treaty and neutral rights of Americans absolutely disregarded. There is no reason why treaties should be allowed to stand in the way of building up American shipping interests. Away with the "favored nation clause," which has been used for half a century to destroy the American merchant marine, say many advocates of the plan.

Have Feelers Out.

High officials in the administration have their feelers out nearly all the time. They are carefully feeling to see if the marriage of the president will have any political effect. That is one of the questions asked of travelers and other political observers who have had an opportunity to hear people talk and get the drift of public opinion. The general verdict is that some women all over the country disapprove of the marriage and that the men do not care. And administration officials smile, for the men do the voting—in the most important states.

Fifteen Hour Reputation.

William V. Allen of Nebraska, who has been out of the senate fourteen years, came to Washington and was at once remembered as the man who made a fifteen hour speech on one occasion. That is one way to erect a monument. Allen was with those Democrats, silver Republicans and Populists who were opposing the repeal of the silver purchase act. He was inclined to Democratic policies then, although elected as a Populist.

When here he spoke of Wilson's popularity, but remarked that "we've got to have a considerable amount of support in order to carry Nebraska for the Democrats in 1916."

Just as Easy.

Democratic leaders in the senate have assured President Wilson that cloture will be adopted at once or at least within a short time after the senate assembles. Those who understand the senate expect to see cloture drag along many months before it is adopted, and perhaps then it will go overboard.

How Will It Affect Suffrage?

The position which President Wilson has taken on the subject of woman suffrage may have an important bearing on the action of the house this winter. In the last congress the Democratic members of the committee on judiciary were much opposed to woman suffrage and succeeded in delaying a vote until late in the session. That committee will have power to hold back a vote in the new congress, but the Democratic members might be influenced by the position of the president. The president has said he is for suffrage by states.

Got a Rise Every Time.

A shrewd man appeared before the joint commission on district affairs recently and got a rise out of every member. As he proceeded with his argument he occasionally would turn aside and mentioned something that had taken place in the state of a member—something in which that member had interested himself, and the witness would praise that action highly. In turn he had Chilton of West Virginia, Works of California, Salsbury of Delaware, Cooper of Wisconsin, Gard of Ohio and Rainey of Illinois on their feet asserting that the witness was correct in his statements.

THE MAN IN THE BOX.

He Startled but Did Not Unnerve the Express Car Messenger.

The messenger was alone in the express car, and the train was making fast time about 200 miles outside of San Francisco. At the last stop the messenger had been very sorry to see an ordinary rough box loaded from the truck. The experience was common enough, but it always depressed him a little.

Having set things to rights, he sat down near his little writing desk and dropped into a doze. A sudden lurch of the train roused him, and, as he stretched himself awake, what was his consternation at seeing that the lid of the rough box was lifted about three inches!

Express messengers live in daily expectation of train robbers, and the thought flashed through his mind in the twinkling of an eye that one of those gentry was in the box.

As he got up from his chair he was relieved to see the lid quietly drop into its place. However, he knew that the bandit was no doubt watching his every movement from a hole bored in the side of the box and that what he did he must do cautiously.

Moving out of the hidden man's range of vision, he got his hands on a few nails and a hammer. Then he slowly worked his way through the lofty pile of packages, which he pretended to be rearranging, suddenly threw a heavy trunk on the lid of the rough box, jumped astride it and nailed down the lid securely. The imprisoned robber roared and struggled, but to no avail.

The messenger rushed to the rear of his car and looked back through the coaches. He could see the man's confederates "going through" the passengers, who held their hands aloft while a member of the gang "covered" them. The express car carried a valuable shipment, and the messenger determined to save it.

Grasping the lever that operated the automatic coupler, he put every ounce of strength he possessed into one terrific jerk. The drawheads parted, and a gap almost instantly opened between the express car and the coaches. Running back through his car, barring the door as he went, the messenger reached the front door and shouted to the engineer to open his throttle. The engine and the express car leaped forward, but not a minute too soon.

The bandits, emerging from the coaches, were insane with rage when they saw themselves foiled and poured volley after volley from their rifles into the fast fleeing car.

From the next station a coach and engine with a posse armed to the teeth went back to the relief of the stalled train, from which the bandits had long since fled. The express car and engine, under a heavy police guard, proceeded to San Francisco. The bandit was unboxed at the police station, and an ugly looking customer he proved to be. He got a sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary.—Wells Fargo Messenger.

Compulsory Drinking.

Compulsory abstinence would have seemed a complete inversion of the natural order to some of our ancestors. They believed in compulsory drinking, and in some old county mansions may still be seen, I believe, a ring let into the wall of the dining hall for the punishment of the man who would not or could not drink his allotted share of liquor.

The culprit's arm was fixed in the ring, and he was given choice of drinking in the ordinary way or having the liquor he refused poured down his sleeve; hence the medieval jest, "Leaving's sleeveing."—London Standard.

Animated Scenery.

Of sanctuaries for the eighteenth century debtor the value of the theater must not be overlooked. As long as the actor was in the bounds of the playhouse he was safe. There was John Palmer, for instance, who lived in his dressing room at Drury Lane for months. But engagements, even at Drury Lane, come to an end, and at length Palmer was required at the Haymarket. The journey was a dangerous one. Necessity, however, always fosters invention. They packed him in a cabinet, put the cabinet in a cart and called him "scenery."

Wasn't the Uniform.

A sailor under the influence of liquor went to the main entrance of a New York theater recently and presented a ticket. The manager refused to admit him, telling him that his money would be refunded at the box office.

"Don't you respect y'r country's uniform?" asked the bibulous one.

"Sure," retorted the manager, "Take it off and I'll put it in a stage box."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Infallible.

"Do you believe that there is really something which can invariably tell when a man is lying?"

"I know it."

"Ah, perhaps you have seen one of the instruments?"

"Seen one? I married one."—Houston Post.

Dying Without a Will.

In the event of one's dying intestate the heirs come in for their share of the estate as established by the laws of the particular state in which the property is found. In the event of no will and no heirs the property goes to the state.—New York American.

PARDONS ASKED OF WILSON

Labor Leaders Seek Release of Former Iron Workers.

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Wilson was asked again by a delegation of union leaders to commute the sentences of former officers of the Structural Iron Workers' union, now serving terms in Leavenworth penitentiary for the so called dynamite conspiracy. Clemency was asked for Frank M. Ryan of Indianapolis, former president of the iron workers, and twelve others.

A year ago appeals for pardons were refused. The president took the appeal under advisement.

DOCTOR CURES BLIND PUPILS

Says Majority of Sightless Can Be Made to See.

New York, Nov. 10.—Dr. William Martin Richards, who voluntarily treated 148 of the pupils in the city's blind school centers, has reported to the Society of Medical Jurisprudence that ninety-six of the pupils have been cured of blindness. Dr. Richards states he is convinced that two-thirds of the pupils in the schools for the blind are not blind, but can be made to see well enough to read newspapers.

NO THOUGHT OF COMPROMISE

Britons Insist War Must Continue Until Teutons Are Beaten.

London, Nov. 10.—If Lord Loreburn was hinting at compromise with Germany when he told parliament that indefinite continuance of the war might mean anarchy and that "any man would be strangely constructed who did not grasp at any honorable opportunity to prevent the most frightful calamity which ever befell the human race," men high in public life declare he is practically alone in his idea.

The Loreburn speech seems to have served only to elicit a general reiteration of previous emphatic statements from all quarters that peace is impossible until the central powers have been decisively beaten.
